SCHOOL CLOSING SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Sunday, Baccalaureate Sermon; Graduation Exercises Wednesday.

The Hartford Graded and High School is closing another year of splendid work to its credit. As little of friction and more talk of good results, from the first grade to the Senior High School class has not been noted in recent years. To the entire faculty credit is due; the student body is not undeserving and the good parents, patrons of the school, perhaps others, have a share in the school's success, by loyal cooperation. Proof of good work performed and faith in the future has been amply demonstrated by the unanimous election of the entire teaching force from the first grade teacher to the superintendent.

To-morrow evening the High School Faculty will give a reception in honor of the Senior Class, to which the Junior Class and patrons of the school are invited.

On Sunday morning, May 14, at 11 o'clock, Dr. Charles S. Gardner, Professor of Homiletics, Baptist Theological Seminary of Louisville, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon at the Methodist Church.

Monday evening, May 15th at 8 o'clock, the eighth grade graduating exercises will be held in the auditorium, at the school building.

In the afternoon of Tuesday at 4 o'clock, the Senior Class Day Exercises are to be held on the campus.

On Tuesday at 8 p.m., the Junior Class will present the play, "Borrowed Money." The play is a Kentucky race-horse story, said to be snappy and sparkling from start to finish.

The closing event, the graduation exercises that marks the start in other spheres or blazes the way toward higher attainments along the same lines in the lives of Misses Myrtle Carter, Defrosia Rone, Helen Barnett, Gola Bennett, Geneva Travis, Sallye Laura Williams, Bessie Clark, Lorene Westerfield, Marion Hill and Herbert Porter and Barbour Williams, will be held at the Methodist Church, Wednesday evening, May 15, at eight o'clock. The Rev. Dr. R. B. Grider of Louisville, will deliver the address on this occasion.

COFFMAN—STALSWORTH

Miss Lena Coffman and Mr. Carl Stalsworth were married Tuesday evening, May 9th, at the Methodist parsonage in Livermore.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. Buck Coffman of the lower Point country and popular in her set, while the groom is a son of Mr. Arch Stalsworth, deceased, and the now Mrs. Harvey Powell, of Decoven. Mr. Stalsworth is highly respected and industrious.

Mr. and Mrs. Stalsworth left yesterday for Louisville, where Mr. Stalsworth has a position with the Kentucky Wood Products Co. The concern lately organized by the Bond Bros. and the Ayer & Lord Timber Companies.

CAUGHT WITH LIQUOR, FINED AT FORDSVILLE

Park Hall, Roscoe Butler and James Hodges, the latter only 16 years of age and the son of Mr. Pete Hodges, all of Beaver Dam, were arrested in Fordsville by Marshal Burden, early Wednesday morning for drunkenness and the two first named given fines of $10.00 and cost in police Court. They were then turned over to Magistrate Murphy, in whose court the same parties were given fines of $100.00 and thirty days in jail for having whisky in their possession and transporting same unlawfully. Under the law young Hodges must be tried in juvenile court and he was therefore brought to Hartford and delivered into the hands of County Judge Wedding. The boy's trial has been set for Monday, next. The trial had eight pints of white liquor in their possession.

It is thought and said that Hall and Butler, who are mature men, induced young Hodges to take that automobile which belonged to his father, without his knowledge or consent and make the trip to Owensboro, where the liquor is said to have been "Young, but starting well."

procured. It is also said that the boy is inexperienced, and not so very well versed in the ways of the world for one of his age.

R. B. BRADSHAW

R. B. Bradshaw died at his home in Hartford Wednesday afternoon, as the result of a combination of cancer of the stomach and heart leakage. He had been a sufferer from the former disease during the past two years and for the last three months had been confined to his bed.

After brief funeral services, conducted at the home, his remains were buried in Oakwood yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Besides his widow, he is survived by four daughters and three sons.

MOORE—MITCHELL

The marriage of Miss Manilla Moore and Mr. John R. Mitchell, was solemnized last Saturday night in the presence of a few friends and relatives, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. King, at Dundee. The Rev. Mauzey of Fordsville, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Moore, of the Sulphur Springs neighborhood, while the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Mitchell of Dundee. He is at present Constable for the Sulphur Springs Magisterial District, and an industrious and prosperous farmer. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell will reside at Dundee.

FEUD OUTBREAK ON TRAIN IN WOODFORD

Two Whites and One Bailey Stage Gun Fight At Versailles.

Lexington, Ky., May 9.—Three shots were exchanged in an affray between two Whites and one Bailey, alleged members of the Bailey-White feud clan, while on the Louisville & Nashville train bound for the mountains at Versailles today.

James Bailey, fired on by the White brothers, John C. and Will, jumped from the smoking car of the train on which the boys, with their mother, Mrs. Beverly D. White, wife of the man murdered at Heidrick, Knox County, a year ago, and a sister, had gone to attend a trial at London, jumped from the train running up the track toward Nicholasville.

Pursued by the Whites and officers, he was captured by Sheriff Frank Bohannon and taken to Nicholasville and lodged in the jail pending trial. The White boys gave themselves up to the Woodford County officials and are out on bond pending trial Wednesday morning.

It is said considerable feeling had been created in Versailles where the shooting occurred. Bailey was shot in the abdomen, but it is believed he will recover.

J. C. and Will White live in Woodford County, and when they learned that Bailey had been to Frankfort with prisoners, they boarded the train at Versailles.

A report was current that an armed crowd had started from Versailles to release Bailey from the jail and that the jail was put under guard of armed men. The report is unfounded as Versailles officials say the town is quiet. Bailey is 35 years old and lives near Barbourville.

MISS MARTHA HILL IS PRIZE WINNER

In a $1,000 contest recently staged by the Paint and Varnish concerns of the country, styled "Save the Surface," Miss Martha Hill of Center- town, was awarded a winning place. The Varnish and Paint people put up a picture of a house upon which a young boy was painting and the contest was in giving the picture the best name. Miss Hill's answer was:

WAR FRAUD CHARGES UP FOR PROSECUTION

Daugherty Says Cases Of First Magnitude Ready to Hand To Grand Jury.

Washington, May 9.—Attorney General Daugherty, in a statement prepared at the request of President Harding and transmitted by the President today to Representative Mondell, of Wyoming, Republican House leader, declared "the record of the Department of Justice in connection with war contract cases calls for no apology and none is intended."

Apparently referring to recent charges in the House of Inaction in prosecution of war fraud cases, the Attorney General asserted "the plans are laid and all cases will be energetically prosecuted."

He added that "very substantial progress" had been made to date by the department, despite lack of adequate facilities in men and money.

The Attorney General in his statement, which was read to the House by Representative Mondell, estimated that the aggregate possible recoveries in several hundred pending cases involving alleged war frauds, should the Government be completely successful, probably would total $100,000,000.

Mr. Daugherty further said it was a "terrible thing to charge a citizen with robbing his own Government," and for that reason he had insisted on "the most painstaking investigation of all cases involving charges of criminality." He asserted that it was "regrettable that public attention should have been so strongly focused on the cases upon the eve of their prosecution," and added:

"Those who may be indicted will justly proclaim that they are the innocent victims of a stimulated activity for political effect. Such, however, will not be the case, and the Department of Justice will not be swerved from its carefully laid plans by any such consideration."

Two cases "of the first magnitude" were ready for submission to the grand jury, said Mr. Daugherty, adding that one was "nation-wide in scope." If this case had been presented without investigation covering a wide range, he said, "the principals might have been indicted and their liability to the Government in large amounts established. The investigation, however, developed a great many others who have been lurking in the shadows are also involved in the unlawful transactions," the letter said, and "the result may be that the principals and several others in all probability will be indicted here, and other indictments against the principals and different groups of individuals may be expected to follow in other parts of the country."

A third case, "which has received considerable publicity," will be ready when the two cases have been fully presented.

GLENN TINSLEY MAKES TRIP WITH "WILDCATS"

The many Ohio County friends of Mr. Glenn Tinsley, who is a Senior at the University of Kentucky, will be glad to learn that he is making the regular Southern trip with the "Wildcat" baseball team as a member of the squad. Young Mr. Tinsley was formerly a member of the Hartford team and has been prominent in athletics as well as otherwise throughout his scholastic career. His "making the Varsity" this year is a fitting climax of his consistent athletic service to his Alma Mater.

After the game with Vanderbilt at Nashville, Mr. Tinsley ran over to Atlanta and spent the week-end with his brother, Mr. Raymer W. Tinsley, who is with the Department of Justice Federal service there, and Mrs. Tinsley. The brothers had not seen each other for six years.

MRS. C. O. HUNTER ENTERTAINS CLUB

Mrs. C. O. Hunter entertained the Ladies' Social Club at her home on Union Street Wednesday afternoon, in honor of her guest, Mrs. W. C. Overhults, of Cedar Edge, Colo. A number of games of progressive rook were played and delicious refreshments served.

Besides Mrs. Overhults and the Club members, Mrs. A. B. Riley, Mrs. W. H. Gillespie, Mrs. E. G. Schroeter and Miss Anna Rhea Carson were guests present to enjoy the delightful occasion.

PASSONNEAU PLEASED WITH PROGRESS MADE

Organization of Dark Tobacco Growers Is More Rapid Than Was Expected.

Hopkinsville, Ky., May 10.—"We are entirely satisfied in fact more than pleased, with the outlook for the organization of the dark Tobacco Growers Co-Operative association of Kentucky and Tennessee," said Joseph Passonneau, chief of the organization work, here today. Mr. Passonneau has been a busy man visiting county after county and getting the organization work started. But he smiled as he talked of the hearty reception he had received at every place visited and the splendid way in which the people all over the district are lining up with the movement.

"The chief trouble," said Mr. Passonneau, "is that all the countries are anxious to be getting members. Especially is this true of the counties lying more on the outskirts of the district, and to which I have been unable to get to as yet. All of them are chafing to get their county organization started. But this is a thing that takes time and the organization must be made county by county and it will be sometime yet before the entire district can be covered. All we ask is that the counties show a little patience, for they may be assured we will get to them all in due time.

"The work in the dark district is going ahead, even more rapidly and successfully than it did last year in the Burley District," Mr. Passonneau continued. "In our work of organizing the Burley District we did not attempt to take any signatures before July 1. Down here Todd County has already practically secured its two-thirds membership, and in other counties some signatures have been taken and several of them almost ready to start the campaign. I believe, though, that one reason for this is that the farmers down here have kept up with the movement in the Burley District and are convinced by it that an organization is necessary and that the Sapiro plan is the one to be adopted, as that has already proven a success.

"As the campaign develops I expect to see it move in every way faster than the Burley District did, and we all know that the burley people broke all former records for the organization of a co-operative association. The people down here are ready to go."

KRAUSE—PIRTLE

News has been received here of the marriage of Mr. Russell Pirtle to Miss Claire Krause, of Detroit, Mich. The marriage was solemnized by Rev. Harney, the young lady's pastor, at 6:30 p.m., May the 6th.

Mr. Pirtle is a son of Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Pirtle of Hartford, a veteran of the World War and possesses a host of friends in this community who congratulate him and his bride and wish for them a smooth and prosperous voyage to the furthest shore.

PRESIDENT MCVEY GUEST OF ALUMNI AT CAPITAL

Washington, May 10.—Frank L. McVey, president of the University of Kentucky, was the honor guest at a banquet given by the Washington branch of the alumni of the university in the City Club here last night. Nearly a hundred "U. of K." graduates attended the dinner, and Jesse I. Miller, Lexington, acted as toastmaster.

MOTHERS' DAY AT BEULAH

Mothers' Day services will be held at the Beulah Cumberland Presbyterian church, at Beda, Sunday May the 21st.

The service is to be an all-day affair, commencing at 10:30 a.m. In the absence of the regular pastor, Rev. L. D. Herald, Rev. R. T. Harper will preach at 11 o'clock. All are invited to attend and bring well-filled baskets.

STRAWBERRY PICKING

William Bean, Jr., Raymond Gray, Otto Lee, Floyd and Cloyd Gibson, Hartford youths, left yesterday morning for the vicinity of Bowling Green where they are to be engaged during the season, picking strawberries.

MARSHALL BULLITT TO RESIGN PLACE

Washington, May 9.—Marshall Bullitt, Louisville, will resign his position as special attorney for the United States Shipping Board within a few weeks in order to resume his law practice in Louisville, it was learned today. The Kentuckian was appointed at a salary of $25,000 a year, but Congressional protests against large expenditures for the Shipping Board's legal staff resulted in a reduction in the salary of its special attorneys to $11,000 shortly after Mr. Bullitt's arrival in Washington and after he had leased a house at $12,000 a year.

Mr. Bullitt's appointment was made on recommendation of Elmer Schlesinger, general counsel of the Shipping Board, but Senator Richard P. Ernst and the Republican members of the Kentucky Congressional delegation were not consulted. Reports that Mr. Bullitt's resignation is the result of differences between him and Mr. Schlesinger were denied today by Mr. Bullitt and other officials of the board.

WILDCATS' LOSE TO GEORGIA UNIVERSITY

The University of Kentucky lost a hard-fought contest to the Georgia University on the latter's grounds at Athens Monday. The game went into the last half of the eleventh inning, after two men were down, when two of their only five hits came together, putting over the only score of the contest. The Cats garnered but four hits in the eleven rounds. The game is said to have been an errorless one.

LANSING LAUDS HAITIAN POLICY

American Acts There Have Been Necessary, He Declares.

Washington, May 7.—American intervention and administration in Haiti were defended by Robert Lansing, former Secretary of State, in a letter to Senator McCormick, Republican, Illinois, chairman of the Senate committee investigating Haitian affairs, made public today.

Establishment of peace and prosperity in Haiti and blocking of German designs and aggression threatening the United States and the Monroe doctrine were declared by Mr. Lansing to be the motives behind the American policy. The two dominating ideas of the American procedure, Mr. Lansing said, were:

"First—To terminate the appalling conditions of anarchy, savagery and oppression, which had been prevalent in Haiti for decades, and to undertake the establishment of domestic peace in the republic in order that the great bulk of the population who had been downtrodden by dictators and the innocent victim of repeated revolutions, should enjoy a prosperity and an economic and industrial development to which every people of an American nation are entitled.

Intervention Was Necessary.

"Second—A desire to forestall any attempt by a foreign power to obtain a foothold on the territory of an American nation which, if a seizure of customs control by such a power had occurred, or if a grant of a coaling station or naval base had been obtained, would have most certainly been a menace to the peace of the western hemisphere and in flagrant defiance of the Monroe doctrine."

Landing of American naval forces in Haiti in 1915, Mr. Lansing stated, was an "urgent necessity," as he said, "anarchy and revolution" were in full sway, with Americans impaled and the French legation violated by a mob which captured and murdered former President Sam. If the United States had not intervened other foreign nations would have done so, Mr. Lansing said, and to have permitted such foreign intervention would have meant abandonment of the Monroe doctrine.

"The United States had to act and to act with vigor," said Mr. Lansing.

German aggression in Haiti also was a serious factor and one not generally known, Secretary Lansing continued, stating that Germany sought a naval base concession from the Haitians at Mole St. Nicholas, a base which would have threatened the American position in the Caribbean and also would have violated the Monroe doctrine.

"There was good reason to believe," said Mr. Lansing, "that in the years 1913-14 Germany was ready to go to great lengths to secure the exclusive customs control of Haiti and also to secure a coaling station at Mole St. Nicholas. There has been a strong German influence in the country, and a considerable number of Germans have intermarried with the Haitians and are closely connected with and more or less active in political and social life of the country."

Mr. Lansing's letter detailed German efforts to obtain the coaling station and Haitian customs supervision. He also recited an incident of a German landing party from the German cruiser Karlsruhe at Port au Prince on the eve of the declaration of war between Germany and Russia. About dusk, he said, several boatloads of armed German sailors landed on the wharf, marched half-way down the wharf, but were turned back by the German minister to Haiti, apparently with orders to proceed to St. Thomas, and the Karlsruhe then proceeded with her raiding cruise.

Secretary Lansing also said that most Haitian revolutions had been started in Northern Haiti, and added:

Liberty Guaranteed.

"It has been the established belief of most Americans who have been in Haiti and of American officials who have been cognizant of Haitian affairs during the last decade, that the majority of these revolutions have been financed in the North of Haiti by German merchants, who could expect sufficient financial advantages from the success of the revolution to warrant the initial outlay." The treaty negotiated between the United States and Haiti, Mr. Lansing said, followed the form of the Dominican treaty negotiated by former President Roosevelt. It conserved Haitian revenues, provided for honest and economical collections and disbursements. Mr. Lansing said, and was ratified by the American Senate without a dissenting vote or proposed amendment. An essential provision, Mr. Lansing said, was the American guarantees of "Haitian independence and the stability of the Haitian gov-

"On account of the state of the country during this period of negotiation," said Mr. Lansing, "in which violence and anarchy were rife, the overtures made by the United States solely out of a desire to aid the Haitian people to establish an orderly and law-enforcing government, which would restore stable political and economic conditions in the island, were fruitless."

During negotiation of the treaty, Mr. Lansing said, the German government made a protest against American naval occupation and control of Haitian customs. Mr. Lansing also stressed that the Haitian government offered, but this government refused a concession to the United States for the coaling station which the German government desired, but which American naval experts said was not needed by this country.

BELIEVING SELF DESERTER SOLDIER ROAMS 3 YEARS

Glasgow, Ky., May 5.—Wandering aimlessly about the country, haunted by visions of himself in striped uniform, behind the damp walls of prison, pursued on every path by visions of the strong arm of the law reaching out for him, cut off from home, friends and worst of all denied the patriotic welcome which fills every soldier's heart with pride on his return from the battlefield, yearning for the clasp of his mother's arms, which he knew were hungrily to make his identity known—this was reaching out for him, yet not daring the torment Lawrence Witty, World War veteran, of Glasgow Ky., suffered for three long years.

Lawrence Witty, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Witty, well-to-do people of Glasgow, answered the first call for volunteers when his country called in the stormy days of 1917. On March 25, 1919, after two years and four months in the army, young Witty was mustered out of service at Camp Pike, Arkansas.

At the time of his discharge, he was asked to stay a few days longer to finish some urgent army work. Witty agreed, but with his discharge in his pocket, he met a party of former soldiers going to New Orleans and joined them. While in New Orleans he wrote one of his former comrades at Camp Pike, who in reply, told Young Witty, evidently in a jocular mood, that the government was looking for him.

Believing he was charged with desertion, Witty began his aimless wandering over the country, a mental fugitive from the law, altho he had done no wrong. He feared to communicate with friends or his parents.

In the meantime his parents searched everywhere for him and believed him dead. A few days ago his father received a letter from his son without any clue of his whereabouts. But later, thru diligent search he was located in Oregon and he was told there was no charge against him as he had done nothing wrong and that he had been regularly discharged. Witty's mother is on her way to her son. His father will follow in a few days. Witty will have his happy homecoming after three long years of misery.

SAYS BEES CAN DETERMINE TIME

During a period of several weeks a French investigator ate his three daily meals outdoors at regular hours each day. Sweets were invariably served at breakfast and at the evening meal but not at the noon-time luncheon. Within a week great swarms of bees were coming regularly to his table mornings and evenings appearing each time at precisely the same hour as on the day before. They quickly learned that nothing sweet was to be had at noon and so none came at that time. The experimenter then tried exposing a jar of jam for the first five minutes of each hour during the day. This was continued for some time. After the first few days the bees learned the system and they then came regularly each hour to fill their honey-bags. So regularly did the intelligent insects appear that the investigator avers they indicated the beginning of each hour as accurately as a clock. From all this the conclusion is drawn that bees are able in some manner to determine time.

AMERICA TRADE BEATS PRE-WAR

Hoover Says Country Is Holding On Despite Depression.

Washington, May 7.—Foreign trade of the United States now is higher than its pre-war level, Secretary Hoover declared tonight in an analysis of the country's overseas commerce situation. Despite the post-war depression, he said, "we have held on."

"There seems to be," Mr. Hoover said, "so much popular misapprehension and conflicting opinion regarding the present condition of our foreign trade that it may be desirable to call attention to a few fundamental factors in the situation."

The total trade of the United States in 1921, he said, was $6,994,100,000, compared with $4,258,400,000 in 1913, or a ratio of 164; Great Britain's total trade in 1921 was $7,301,399,000, compared with $6,830,401,000 in 1913, or a ratio of 107; France's total trade for 1921 was $3,362,503,000 against $2,953,199,000, or a ratio 114; while, estimated on an eight months' basis, Germany's trade was $1,920,976,000 in 1921, against $4,966,327,000 in 1913, or a ratio of 39.

"Basis of a pre-war comparison," he said, "we find that the foreign trade of the United States is nearer normal than the trade of the United Kingdom, France or Germany, which are our principal competitors."

"If the trade of the various countries were analyzed by commodities instead of by values they would still show somewhat the same proportion. In other words, the trade of the United States, even in times of great depression, is higher than our pre-war level. During the last few months there has been a distinct revival in trade from the low point, and I am confident that we have little reason to accept the pessimistic view of our foreign trade future taken by many students of the question."

"Our trade has shifted somewhat as to commodities owing to the changed economic currents, due to the war, but when all is said and done the remarkable fact stands out that we have held on."

"It should be pointed out that in order to form a correct opinion of the volume of our foreign trade we must take a pre-war year as a basis of comparison. The tremendous increase in our foreign trade during the war could not have taken place under normal conditions, and therefore should not be taken as a starting point in an estimate of our present situation. As a matter of fact, when we consider the diminished purchasing capacity of the civilized world, caused by the war, we are not sure whether we are even justified in adding to our pre-war level the average pre-war normal increase to cover the period since the outbreak of the war."

HAD TO GO WITHOUT GAP

"Paw" excitedly exclaimed young Runt, "Keke Yawkey and a passel of fellers are out in front. They say the bank at Tumlinville has been robbed, and they want you to grab your gun and go with em to hunt the robbers!"

"Tell 'em I'm much obliged and powerful sorry," replied Gap Johnson of Bumpus Ridge, "but I ain't in no shape to jine 'em. Gabe Gosnell dropped in a spell ago and 'lowed that as he was going to be married this afternoon to the Widder McCorckindale he'd like to borry my best britches to wear during the anecdote and as I felt I'd just about as soon sleep today as not I let him have 'em. And your maw is just sewing up the gable end of my old ones whut the roan cow hooked me by mistake for her calf or somethin'. So you tell the gents, Runt, that if 'twas any other time I'd be tickled to go with 'em, but just at presen I'll have to lay out."—Kansas City Star.

WASHINGTON COMMENT

In the town of Pisa, where stands the leaning tower, one Galileo demonstrated to an amazed world that two stones, one small, one large, fell at the same rate of speed. He also perfected, if he did not invent, the first telescope, first turned it upon the moon, first discovered the moons of Jupiter. And he first defended before the church the Copernican theory, that the earth was round, when all respectable citizens, including the priests, knew perfectly well it was flat!

For these and other high crimes, the Catholic Church punished Galileo severely, who saved his life by recanting publicly his doctrine that the earth moved. Tradition has it that after he had done so, he muttered into his beard, "And yet it does move!"

However that may be, Cardinal Maffi, of Pisa, a scientist, is behind the movement to erect in the public square of Pisa a great monument to the man all the world today acclaims as one of the great thinkers and great leaders of all time in science and clear thinking.

Galileo lived 1564-1642. This is 1922. It took Pisa in general and the church in particular quite a time to recognize that even churches err!

Better late than never!

Blaming the woman has been a favorite indoor sort since the days of Adam! If one cannot blame a woman under any other pretext, put the fault upon her for having a son who does something he shouldn't!

Apparently so reason those doubtless well-intentioned but short visioned occupants of pulpits who see in the economic and political rise of women from a dependent to an independent state the cause of all the ills to which modern civilization is heir.

A well-known revivalist demands that the next war is to be caused by the "flapper." He adds that all wars have been caused by "the depravity of women."

A noted woman worker in social hygiene advocates more women in politics and more laws as a cure for vice and the activities of vicious women.

A national legislator wants marriage laws so amended that from ten days to two weeks must elapse between issuance of license and marriage, as a cure for divorce, the divorced women being one of the great evils of the country!

It would be a dull world if we all thought alike. Yet one is reminded that a fundamental of the government of what we reveres is the land of the free is tolerance! willingness to concede to the other fellow the right to his opinion, even as we hold inalienable the right to our own.

No good American has any objection to anyone thinking that flappers cause wars, that women are evil creatures, that hasty marriages undermine the American home, or that vice can be cured by "don't do it" laws. But there is great objection to evangelists, educators and legislators stating as facts which they wish to be the basis of legal action what are, after all, only personal opinions, the truth of which it is difficult to substantiate by any evidence.

One does wonder, at times, whether these reformers who decry women really had mothers, or if, like Topsy, they "just growed!"

Servant (from next door)—Please mum, missus sends her compliments, and will you let your daughter sing and play the piano this afternoon?

Lady—Why, certainly. Tell your mistress I'm glad she likes it.

Servant—Oh, it isn't that, mum; she's expecting a visit from the landlord, and she wants some excuse for asking a reduction on the rent.

"Maybe it's like a Leyden jar," explained Arthur Ruhl, who carried the airplane mail between Salt Lake City and San Francisco. "You know how the sparks jump from one knob to the other and just prick a little hole in a piece of paper. Of course, if the lightning flash happened to go thru your airplane gas tank you would be out of luck. While flying you will see the lightning bolt run along a cloud across the sky. It seems to make for the place where the rain is thickest and to run down on that. So you strike for the place where the rain is thinnest. If there is a blue spot or a hole in the clouds you climb or dive for that. Sometimes there is no way out and you simply have to bore through it. But it always scares me, I'll say."

BOY'S KISSES SPREAD "FLU"

If, as someone has said, there are 100 ways to kiss a girl, an 11-year-old boy attending a rural "sociable" on Long Island chose a very bad way. After the kissing games were over and the children had begun to forget the party, 40 of the 51 guests developed influenza. The state health department found the boy guilty of transmitting germs. Six young girls, however, who were the center of attraction must have been previously inoculated or had callous lips, for they escaped contagion.

Doctor—Have you the habit of sleeping with your mouth open, Mr. Fromage?

Patient—I've never taken particular notice, doctor; I'll have a look at myself tonight.—Journal Pour Rire.

Have you any historic spots about here?"

"Yes," said Squire Witherbee. "Right across th' street you will observe th' Palace barber shop."

"I don't quite get your idea. What happened there?"

"During th' World war th' vigilance committee of Chiggersville cornered old Deacon Skinner there an' made him buy $100 worth of Liberty bonds."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

DEFENDS MODERN GIRL

The girl of today is an object of clothes and may possibly outdo the previous generation in some of the common virtues, says Miss Caroline Rutz-Rees, principal of Rosemary Hall school, Greenwich, Conn. Gaiters and bobbed hair are not mortal sins, she says; "they are only extreme offenses against good taste." Miss Rutz-Rees says she would rather trust the "flapper" with men than the demure maiden of the 19th century. "The girl of today can take care of herself," she contends.

PROHIBITION MORE RIGIDLY ENFORCED

Louisville, Ky., May 11.—In an address this evening at municipal Auditorium before the Louisville Churchmen's Federation, Prohibition Commissioner Haynes voiced a warning against propaganda, falsely assailing enforcement of the 18th amendment. Commissioner Haynes declared there is every reason for satisfaction. "The amendment," he said, "is being recognized as a cardinal part of the constitution and the fact that antagonists are renewing, with increased force, their well-defined and costly propaganda speaks for itself. In other words, the enforcement shoe is pinching. The truth is that the law is being enforced with greater success than was ever conceived possible in less than thirty months by its closest friends. Facts which none deny, said the Commissioner, "are that the gilded, open saloon is a thing of the past and even enemies of prohibition admit it is gone forever; hotels, which before Prohibition feared ruin, are now co-operating in enforcement and many prominent managers declare they do not want the bar room back; purchasers of bootleg liquor themselves know the law is being enforced, for the simple reason that the source of supply is now so restricted that real bonded liquor is almost impossible to obtain, and they are compelled to drink poisonous, doctored stuff or go without. The spirit of cooperation on the part of all officials, federal, state and municipal; the country over, coupled with several sentences by courts, is further convincing proof of enforcement," said the Commissioner, "and another striking proof is the changed attitude of the editors and cartoonists, who, as everybody knows, reflect public opinion and are a true index of current events. Scores of other glowing facts of successful enforcement may be cited, such as helpful cooperation on the part of neighboring governments, continued the Commissioner. Furthermore, most states have their own enforcement codes, through which results are being obtained in addition to federal laws and national organization."

Among other things, the Commissioner said:

"Twenty-four states are medicinal dry. There are approximately 150,000 physicians in the United States and about 40,000 of them reside in these twenty-four medicinally dry states. Of the 110,000 physicians remaining, less than 35,000 hold permits to prescribe liquor. It is now nearly ten months since the renewed effort began to restrict good liquor into legitimate channels and I am happy to report that this result is perhaps as nearly achievement as possible."

"The years immediately preceding prohibition showed an annual consumption in the United States of about 130,000,000 gallons of American-made whiskey. During the calendar year 1920 there was withdrawn on permits approximately 12½ million gallons and in the calendar year 1921 withdrawals amounted to about 3½ million gallons. Withdrawals for this calendar year on the basis of the last three or four months will amount to about two million gallons, which is perhaps only about one-half million gallons in excess of normal medicinal requirements. At the beginning of this fiscal year there were approximately 500 breweries engaged in the manufacture of near-beer. 285 of them have been reported for violation of the law; 95 of these plants are now under seizure by the Government; 60 breweries have been seized since July 1. Two of these breweries have submitted offers in compromise of $96,000 each and the other offers reach from $20,000 to $60,000 and this does not mitigate possible criminal liability against the companies. If we were to collect the fines, penalties and special tax imposed upon violators of the law in the first six months of this administration, they would more than pay two and one-half times the estimated cost of enforcing the Prohibition law for the next year. These enormous figures do not include nearly $3,000,000 in bonds that are being forfeited to the Government or $2,000,000 that have been offered in compromise by twenty-one of the large violators of the law, and do not include the $6,000,000 in differential or prohibitory tax that have been referred to."

Surgeons agree that in cases of cuts, burns, bruises and wounds, the first treatment is most important. When an efficient antiseptic is applied promptly, there is no danger of infection and the wound begins to heal at once. For use on man or beast, Borzene is the ideal antiseptic and healing agent. Buy it now and be ready for an emergency. Price 30c, 60c, and $1.20. Sold by Ohio County Drug Co.

BURLEY ASSOCIATION TO HAVE MAGAZINE

Lexington, Ky., May 6.—The Burley Tobacco Growers' Cooperative Association will begin this month the publication of a monthly magazine to be devoted to the news of the Burley co-operative marketing movement. The first issue of the new magazine, which will be the official organ of the association, will be published May 10.

J. Sherman Porter, who managed the publicity campaign of the Burley association thru its formative period, has been elected editor and manager of the new publication. Mr. Porter has had long experience in newspaper work and for the past six years has been actively engaged in publicity, having conducted a number of successful statewide campaigns previous to going with the Burley association. The paper will be published in Lexington.

CLAIMS BARE KNEES HEALTHY

Recently Rev. Frank Norris charged that "when a woman shows her knees you can see the finish of the nation." This drew the fire of Miss Claire Miller, of Chicago, who was recently awarded a prize in Boston for a dandy pair of knees. She replies: "If Dr. Norris waged war on shoulders, eyes, or even ankles, it would not have been so silly. I wear my knees bare all winter; it's sensible and healthy."

DEFLAPPERIZING THE FLAPPER

Female employees in the paroles division in the capitol at Trenton, N. J., must not wear short skirts or bobbed hair, or use lip sticks or rouge any more. They have been getting the goats of the male employees, who could not perform their official duties. So the department heads have decreed a reform.

"What sort of man is Appel?" "Put him with a crowd of men and he's as redblooded as anybody." "I see." "But his wife selects his hats."

BOARD APPROPRIATES 5 MILLION DOLLARS

Advance In All Fields Reported At Meeting Of Board Of Missions.

Appropriations for 1923 aggregating $4,775,438 to carry on the home and foreign missionary work of the church, were made at the annual meeting of the Board of Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, which met in Nashville, Tennessee, recently in its 76th annual session.

According to reports from every field the year 1921 was marked by the greatest missionary advance in the history of the Church.

Korea, reporting 22,000 new believers, Siberia-Manchuria Mission with 3,200 and Czechoslovakia with 5,000 membership almost doubled in Mexico, revival conditions in China, a double-the-membership movement in Japan, and the inception of plans for a great evangelistic campaign in Brazil were some of the notable illustrations. Contributions on the fields were about doubled during the year, due to the impetus of the Centenary, which has been felt everywhere.

Brazil offered the best illustration of Centenary results on the material side, where under the close supervision of Bishop Moore, fifty-two good churches and twenty-four parsonages have been erected, paid for, and are occupied. On all the fields more than two hundred churches have gone up.

For the homeland Dr. O. E. Goddard reported for the Committee on Evangelism: "More people in the pew, more converted, more tithers, more family altars, more personal workers, more money contributed."

MAN TAKES WIFE'S NAME.

When Donald Carl Sharp Steen, age 26, became the blushing groom of Relda Van Riper, age 15, who owns valuable properties in New York, he took the name of his better half. Mr. Van Riper, nee Sharpsteen, "his maiden" name, says the reason for the change of his cognomen is purely personal and nobody else's business. The court has legalized the change.

HEART PIERCED BY CORSET-STAY

A young Swiss woman was making a steep descent with members of a skiing party when she fell over a ledge, landing in a deep bank of snow 20 feet below. Witnesses thought the fall a trivial one but when they went to the girl's rescue they found her dead, her heart having been pierced by a whalebone stay of her corset.

RHEUMATISM IS GONE AND AKRON MAN FEELS FINE

Pitkin Wants Others To Know How Tanlac Gave Complete Relief When Whole System Was Affected, He Declares.

"Just thirty days use of Tanlac convinced me of its unusual merit," said T. B. Pitkin, accountant for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., who lives at 287 Wheeler St. Akron, Ohio. "I suffered with muscular rheumatism in my legs for a year, lost my appetite, and my whole system became affected. Indigestion and the pain in my legs kept me in misery and I knew I couldn't bear up much longer."

"I noticed the statement of Mr. Weirath of the Goodrich Company about how Tanlac helped him, so I had a talk with him then started taking the medicine too. Well, my rheumatism is gone and I feel as strong as I ever did. My appetite is good, I can eat anything and have gained several pounds. I want others who suffer to know what a great medicine Tanlac is."

Tanlac is sold by all good drugists.

Hawkins—Well, old man, how's business going?

Hawkins—But I'd heard a rumor that your people had failed.

Martin—So they have. The business has just been wound up.

WINS PRIZE ESSAY CONTEST

To W. J. Cassiday of the government printing office in Washington goes the distinction of winning the first 50-word essay prize of $100 awarded in a recent nation-wide contest by Topics of the Day. The subject was "How general business conditions can be improved for the manufacturer, merchant, worker and unemployed." Cassiday's essay was as follows: "Adopt the sales tax or some other tax measure which will do away with all taxes known as 'war taxes.' Let capital and labor arrive at some agreement and stop scrapping. Make reformers go to work and earn an honest living. Bring back beer and light wines. Forget the war."

SAYS WOMEN WOULD DRINK BEER

Rev. G. C. Rarick, of Washington, executive secretary of the board of temperance of the Methodist church, said if beer should come back many American women who before the war did not drink beer would take up the practice. This is due to the passing away of old standards of conduct, he said; and he believes any reversion to pre-prohibition ideas would be "perious to American womanhood."

MEMORIAL TREE FOR CLARA BARTON

Amidst impressive ceremonies Easter Sunday an oak tree and rose bush were planted at Glen Echo, Md., in front of the house in which Clara Barton, noted for her Red Cross work, died. Speakers paid high tribute to her unselfish service in the interest of humanity. Gen. Nelson A. Miles said Miss Barton's fame was the highest any woman could attain.

About Rheumatism.

People are learning that it is only a waste of time and money to take medicine internally for chronic and muscular rheumatism, and about ninety-nine out of a hundred cases are one or the other of these varieties. All that is really necessary to afford relief is to apply Chamberlain's Liniment freely. Try it. It costs but 35 cents per bottle. Large size 60 cents.

The minister was warming to his subject. "All of yoh, he fulminated, "unless yoh repent, will be cast into outah darkness, and wail, and gnash yoh teeth."

"I ain't done got no teeth, sah," interrupted an old man. "Dey is goin' to be supplied, suh," answered the minister.

"Why do you encourage your boy to send his verses to the magazines? Do you want him to be a poet?" "No; I want to see the conceit knocked out of him, that's all."

"Did you hear about the awful trouble that has befallen Mrs. Talkalot?" "Don't tell me she has lost her voice."

"No, her husband has lost his hearing."—Boston Transcript.

When little Percival arrived at school he carried the following note: "Dear Teacher: Our little Percival is a very delicate child, and if he is naughty—and he is apt to be naughty at times—just punish the boy next to him and that will frighten him so he'll be good."

"William!" There was a premonition of danger in Mrs. Wiggins' voice and her husband wondered what indiscretion he had committed. "I asked you to set my geranium out in the flower bed and—"

"Well, didn't I, this very morning?"

"William!" There were tears and anger in her tones now. "You planted my new spring hat!"—Life.

It was a melodrama, and in the prison scene a man was supposed to be shot while filing the bars of his cell in an attempt to escape. The warden's revolver failed to explode, but the prisoner dropped as though dead.

Rising gallantly to the occasion, the warden exclaimed, in a tone of horror: "Heavens! He's swallowed the file!"

HIS NAME WAS BARBER

Sim Plicity—Hi, I went to a great show last night. Guess what I saw? Hi Larity—I don't know. What show was it and what did you see?

Sim Plicity—It was the Banum and Barley show and they had a man there who was nine feet tall but he only weighed 97 pounds.

Hi Larity—Did they explain how he happened to be so slender?

Sim Plicity—Yes, his parents were Poles.

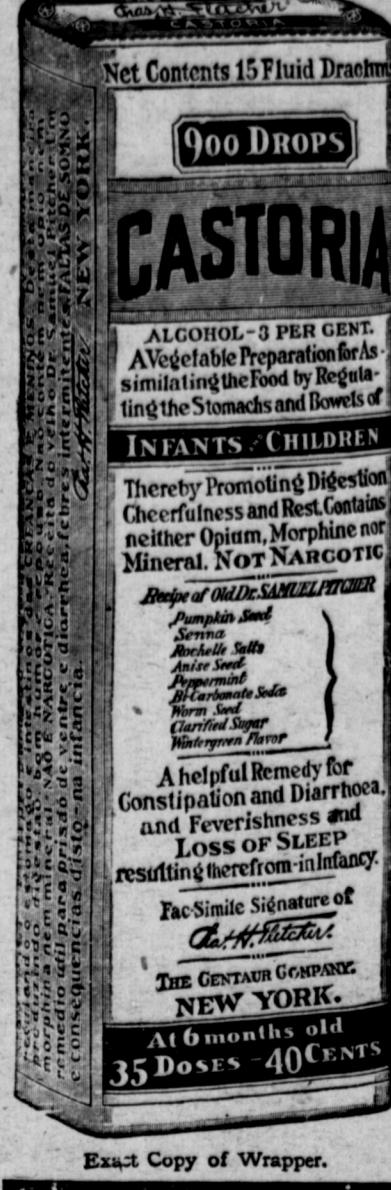

"I played 'Hamlet' once."

"Indeed! Did you have much of a run?"

"About six miles, as I remember it."

in that denomination.

Methodist ministers, laymen, and women from all over Southern Methodist territory will attend the big conference as delegates and the body will be the largest in its history, including 388 members in addition to the college of bishops. At the last general conference held in Atlanta four years ago, laity rights were granted to women, and accordingly the woman power of the church will be well represented as members of the body for the first time.

The Hot Springs conference opens May 3, and lasts about three weeks. The election of new bishops plans for missionary work and numerous other matters will be considered.

MUST BE GOOD OR GET OUT

For alleged infractions of school regulations, 17 young women of Michigan State Normal college, at Ypsilanti (called "Ypsi" for short), were dismissed and 13 others were placed on probation. The indiscretions with which the girls were charged include: Allowing undue familiarity from men; all-night absence from room; coming in late via windows; camping autoists and allowing them to pick them up. The college officials maintain that as long as the people of Michigan support the college for the training of teachers they have a right to say what sort of teachers they want. Any girl known to smoke tobacco will be expelled from the college and students who bob their hair will not be recommended for positions. The girls, threatening to rebel, say: "We are old enough to look after our own morals."

MECHANICAL "HELLO-GIRL"

In New York three telephone exchanges are installing dials which one must punch for himself to get his number. It is claimed that the new automatic system, which will do away with the "hello-girl," will save time and increase accuracy. Should the new system work out practically, it is estimated that in 10 years the device will be installed on every telephone system in the country.

FRIDAY, MAY 12

Saturday, tomorrow, marks the annual event in the so-called "Sport of Kings." The Kentucky Derby Champion is to be crowned, and wreathed in flowers, for the forty-eighth time. The purse hung up for this annual sport event is $50,000 with an added $7,000 gold service to the winner. Race devotees and admirers of the fleet-footed thoroughbred, from all over the country, will be at Churchill Downs tomorrow, to witness the greatest racing event, from a financial standpoint, ever offered for a field of three-year olds.

It seems that we can't get away from the hue and cry of partisan hatred and insincerity for failure of the Nation to become a party to the League of Nations, notwithstanding the fact that action upon that particular line was approved by the voice of more than seven-million majority of the citizens of the United States. We can't quite understand just why their action should be continuously referred to as blind, partisan hatred.

The Allies we are accused of criminally deserting were allowed to go for months, yes stretching into years, with their heads in a noose drawn to the choking point by those who sought to execute, while we sat supinely by, solely for the purpose, as it seems to us, of singing a great battle song later on: "He kept Us Out of War." But, as a matter of course, all of that has nothing to do with the position of America today.

Whatever the people desire, under ordinary circumstances, should be given them. A child of course should not be given fire to play with simply because it wants it, but when a majority of grown-ups fairly express themselves as being in favor of certain definite policies and measures it would seem that their wishes should be adhered to and if they express decided disapproval of certain policies and measures their wishes should likewise be taken into consideration. Why call it partisan hate if they elect to disapprove of what we stand for and desire?

Life is, and ought to be held sacred, except that lived in brutality and in defiance and disregard of all established rules and regulations of decent, organized society. Then, when one deliberately and maliciously transgresses, to the hurt and safety of the innocent, peace loving and law abiding element, the ending of such a life may be accounted as a blessing and necessity, to the whole.

There is one other, too common in the life of not a few communities, that is the unscrupulous who invade the privacy and sacredness of another person's home. The one who commits such an offense takes his life in his hands, yes, more, his life is dangling at his finger tips. Juries may not, in every case set the man free who slays an offender of this character, a violator of the sanctity of home, but not in years to come will there be found a jury who will convict for a homicide committed under such circumstances when of reasonable clarity. There is no law by which such a violator may receive punishment commensurate with the crime. This thing we term the "Unwritten Law" may be a law of the jungles, but as certain as there is a Ruler of the Universe the willful violator of that law is going to die by the hand of the outraged and the bearer of that hand is going to be allowed to remain free by juries made up of the country's best citizens. The would-be offender might just as well fix his mind and govern his actions accordingly.

Frankfort, Ky., May 4.—Rules and regulations regarding the renewal and life extension of teachers' certificates were issued today by Superintendent of Public Instruction, George Colvin.

Applicants for renewal of a first-class county certificate must have the certification of the county school superintendent that the following requirements have been complied with:

"A person having taught for eight consecutive years in the same county under first-class certificates may have the last one renewed for a period of four years by the State Board of Education, who shall write upon it 'renewed,' sign officially and give the date of such renewal.

When a certificate has been renewed one time the teacher shall again receive two first-class certificates, as stated above, before it can be renewed a second time."

Application for life certificates must have exact certification by the county superintendent of each cerificate held and each place where they have taught during the last twenty years. State certificates and city certificates issued by city boards can not be extended for life. A life certificate can not be granted out-

The following rules govern life

extension of first-class certificates:

"The State Board of Education, in their discretion, shall have the power to extend for life, teachers' certificates of such teachers who have had as many as twenty years of successful experience teaching in the common schools of this state, provided that no such certificate shall be of a lower class than the first class."

MONTGOMERY COUNTY WILL START DRIVE

Clarksville, Tenn., May 8.—Judge John T. Cunningham, leader in the campaign for the Dark Tobacco Growers Co-operative Association in Montgomery county, has announced that the active campaign for signing up the growers in this county will begin about June 1st. This was first announced for May 15th, but later it was learned that Judge Robert W. Bingham would be here to deliver a speech in behalf of the Association on May 27th, so it was decided to defer the membership drive until after his visit.

But this county will be thoroughly circularized in the meantime so as to thoroughly familiarize the farmers with the matter. A few contracts will be mailed out as a preliminary campaign for signers.

Leaders of the movement say Montgomery county is in fine shape and the sign-up is expected to run considerably above the required two-thirds of the tobacco acreage.

SCHOOLS FOR PASTORS AND LAY WORKERS

Dr. John S. Chadwick, secretary of publicity for the Missionary Centenary movement in a recent interview concerning schools for pastors and lay workers in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, said:

"The missionary centenary has made possible advances in every field in which our church has missionary enterprises. It is true that a large part of the centenary fund is being used in foreign lands, and this is as it should be, but the centenary has also given us resources that, in some measure, make possible an aggressive program of work in the home field.

"In my opinion the home department is doing no better piece of work than its emphasis on the rural church and the rural field. It is supporting a number of rural demonstration charges and giving help to many circuit pastors. The schools for town and country pastors, with the emphasis on the rural work, reached last year, some three hundred of our pastors and lay workers. During the summer of 1921 two such schools were held and the program for 1922 calls for six of these schools.

"At these schools training will be given in every phase and department of church and community work. The faculties will be composed of the outstanding rural leaders in America. There will be no expense in attendance upon these schools except railroad fare and board and lodging while on the ground."

LARGEST GROWER IN CHRISTIAN SIGNS UP

Hopkinsville, Ky., May 9.—Richard Leavell, largest tobacco grower of this county if not of the entire dark district, has signed a membership contract in the Dark Tobacco Growers Co-operative Association, although the membership campaign in this county will not actually start until May 16. Mr. Leavell pledged 175 acres, his entire crop on the several farms he owns in this county. Mr. Leavell's signing is expected to have a far-reaching effect upon other farmers and to get them to sign.

FARM DEPARTMENT.

Novel Means Used To Show Up-To-Date Poultry Houses.

Model poultry houses on courthouse squares is a new means of demonstrating improved poultry practices. These houses are built according to blue prints furnished by extension workers employed cooperatively by the United States Department of Agriculture and the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas. They are designed to be ideal for farm use, and are furnished with the proper equipment. The houses are built economically so that farmers may copy them, and are located on courthouse squares where county farm demonstration agents usually have their offices and many farmers come every Saturday.

The story of the Franklin County house is typical of others. The agent constructed the house and equipped it with dry-mash hopper and drinking fountain. He stocked it with eight hens selected on the basis of egg-production. The chamber of commerce furnished the money, and a lumber company gave the material.

It was easy to get hen from each of four barred-rock breeders and one from each of four white leghorn breeders for an egg-laying contest, which attracted much attention. After the hens had become accustomed to their new home a record of the eggs laid by each breed and the amount of food consumed each month was kept and reported in the local papers.

Hundreds of persons visited the house last year. Some came to study the house, others the drinking fountain and dry-mash hopper, as well as to see the hens. The house has been a great factor in determining the plans for poultry houses all over the county.

One of the model poultry houses located on courthouse lawns is to remain until it is awarded to the best poultry club member this fall.

Later Cutting of Alfalfa Found to Be Better Practice

Delaying the cutting of alfalfa until it is nearly in full bloom has been found a better practice than mowing it soon after blooming starts. Trials made by the United States Department of Agriculture and State experiment stations indicate that the yields are larger over a period of years, and that the life of the stand is prolonged by delaying harvesting until the plants are nearly in full bloom.

Hay made when the plants are nearly in full bloom possibly is not quite so palatable, but this is offset by the gain in quantity of hay. The fields that were cut prior to or at the beginning of blooming showed a tendency to die out sooner. Cutting a crop late in the fall so that not enough growth was left for protection in the winter also had much to do with thinning stands. The department recommends that alfalfa be given time to reach a height of 6 to 8 inches before cold weather shuts off the hay flow.

In the past the growing of alfalfa in rows in dry regions has been recommended, but experimental evidence gathered by the department in the last few years shows that with the exception of a few rare varieties the seed of which sells for a high price, this method is seldom practical. Where the rainfall is not sufficient to grow alfalfa in broadcast stands it can not usually be grown profitably in rows. A slightly larger yield may be produced, but not enough to pay for the added expense. Also the hay harvested on this cultivated ground is apt to be dirty and it is hard to cut and load.

HOW'S YOUR HEALTH?

I began taking the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and the 'Pleasant Pellets' and they put me on the road to good health right away. exploded some old notions about the value of cultivation of broadcast stands. It has been found that harrowing a field of alfalfa ordinarily does not increase the yield; neither does it prolong the life of the stand to any noticeable extent. The modified spring-tooth harrow does not injure the plants, but the disk often kills many and reduces the stand. Some sort of cultivation appears advisable in irrigated regions where the water carries a great deal of silt or where the soil has been compacted by the tramping of cattle pastured on the alfalfa. The department believes there is usually little to be gained by cultivating broadcast fields when the stand is good. If weeds and grass work in and reduce the stand it is better to plow up a field and put in another crop for a year or two. It is hard to thicken thin stand by cultivating it and sowing more seed; in fact, it is a waste of time, the Department believes.

Federal Aid Strengthened State Highway Departments.

Federal aid has done a great deal more for the country than simply to provide funds for road construction, according to the Bureau of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture. One of the most far-reaching results has been its influence in placing the greater part of the highway work of the country in the hands of experienced engineers of State highway departments.

In 1915, prior to the Federal-aid act, 70 per cent of the road work was done by agencies other than State highway departments, most of it by county officials. Such a system was bound to be wasteful. Overhead costs were high, engineers were not always employed, systems to serve the best interests of the State as a whole were not developed, and the opportunities for corruption were greater.

With the passage of the Federal-aid act of 1916 and the insistence of the Government upon the construction of Federal-aid roads under the supervision of State departments, existing State highway departments were enlarged and strengthened, and in 17 States adequate departments have been created where there had been none or the existing one was not properly equipped to perform necessary functions.

With adequate departments the work has been shifted to their control, until at the present time they supervise more than 60 per cent of the road work. This assures to the taxpayer the services of engineers trained in road work, a centralized authority responsible for the expenditure of funds, and a far-sighted plan of development and financing.

Broody Hens Now Weighty Drag On Poultry Profits.

If all the telephones in use in the United States today were placed side by side they would reach from New York to Kansas City. Placed one on top of the other, these instruments, if of the more commonly used desk type, would tower to a height greater than 17,500 Wolsworth Buildings.

After using the telephone an average of seven times each day for the conclusion that an operator treated with semi-human courtesy will pay us back in kind with 100 per cent "interest" on the trifling investment.—Press Gazette, March 14, Green Bay, Wis.

Pine Needle Baskets Bring Good Income to Club Girl.

How to use spare time profitably might be held by a young Mississippi club girl, Nonie Talbert, whose home is some 6 miles from the town of Meridian. Besides belonging to a canning club, a poultry club, and a dairy club, all at the same time, Nonie earns money to pay for her own clothes, books, and high-school tuition, altho she leaves home before 6 in the morning to attend school and returns after 6 at night.

She is 15, and the eldest of seven children. Her mother and the older children do farm work, while the Father works in the shops at Meridian. Three years ago, about the time Nonie first went into club work, she also started going to high school in Meridian. She has to go to and from town with her father every day.

The home demonstration agent suggested that the time Nonie had to wait before and after school might be sent in the extension office in the courthouse. For the past three years Nonie has been doing this. She studies her lessons first then puts her spare time to good use making pine-needle baskets, an art learned at the State short course in 1919. During the past nine months Nonie has made and sold $32 worth of baskets.

At the Meridian fair she won first and second prizes on her basket exhibit. At the Jackson State fair she won second prize, and at the art exhibit of the State federated clubs held in Jackson, she won second prize.

All Nonie's club activities must be carried on either before 6 in the morning or after 6 at night. This means caring for her garden, doing her canning, caring for her poultry and calf when the average girl of 15 would consider herself entitled to a little recreation.

While the Department of Agriculture does not want to encourage club members to carry on their work under difficulties similar to those encountered by this Mississippi girl, it is interesting to note that club work rouses ambition which often enables girls and boys to accomplish what is seemingly impossible.

Broody Hens Now Weighty Drag On Poultry Profits.

Lexington, Ky., May 8.—With egg prices lower than they have been at any time this season and feed prices slowly but steadily climbing from the low level reached last summer, high egg production is important in obtaining poultry profits, according to poultrymen at the College of Agriculture. Unless they are promptly broken up and returned to the laying flock, thousands of hens that become broody at this season of the year can seriously reduce the possibilities of obtaining profits, the poultrymen say.

Hens that begin to show signs of broodiness should be confined in slate-bottomed coops immediately and given proper care and feed in order that they may start laying as soon as possible. It is best to give the birds the same grain feed that is being fed to the laying hens, and plenty of milk or a dry mash composed of equal parts by weight of bran, shorts, ground oats, corn meal and takage.

If such hens are placed in the broody coop the day they lay their last egg instead of being allowed to stay on the nest several days after they have stopped laying, the breaking up process will be hastened. For every day that the hens are allowed to remain on the nest after they have stopped laying before they are confined, it usually takes about three extra days to bring them back to laying. A cool place, preferably under a tree in hot weather, is a good place for the broody coop.

Although all broody hens are not loafers or non-layers, the hen that persists in becoming broody usually will lay few eggs, the poultrymen say. Attempts should be made to identify this type of hen and send her to the market, they say.

Farm and Home News From Over Kentucky.

In order to show their neighbors the value of corn and soybeans grown together and hogged off, 18 Meade county farmers will cooperate with the College of Agriculture extension division and County Agent B. B. McInerney in conducting demonstrations along this line during the coming summer.

Presentation of merit certificates to 124 Madison county boys and girls in recognition of their project work conducted during the past year recently marked the close of a successful year of junior agricultural club work in that county, according to County Agent R. F. Spence. The presentation of the certificates featured the program of "Achievement Day" held in honor of the club members who had successfully completed their projects.

The first purebred Hereford with a pedigree to be brought into Leslie county has arrived, according to County Agent T. L. Britton. John Hamilton, Earlier, is the owner. Crittenden county farmers are continuing to find cooperative shipping a profitable method of marketing their poultry according to County Agent J. R. Spencer. They recently added another car to the number already shipped this season.

Forty-seven orchards being conducted as demonstrations by their owners who are cooperating with the College of Agriculture extension division and County Agent Robert H. WASHINGTON COMMENT

"The meanest man" story is forever being retold in the daily press. Washington, at the moment, is insistent to award the palm to those responsible for the threatened "picketing" of the White House by the wives and children of political prisoners, with the avowed end and aim of forcing President Harding to extend pardons to these offenders.

Without discussing the question of the rights and wrongs of the sentences given the one hundred and fourteen men who are now in jail in this country for political offenses, it can be noted that the law is in the law. Generation of experience have proved that the way to eliminate a bad law is to enforce it, and that a law unenforced is worse than no law.

These offenders were jailed after due trial for proved offenses against existing laws.

It may well be that pardons may be given some or all of them. But if such a course is pursued, it will be because, in the judgment of the Department of Justice, the ends of justice will thus be best served, and not because propagandists use women and children in an attempt to play upon the sympathies of the public.

Hardly the murderer, the absconder, the robber, the train-wrecker, the bandit, who cannot find some woman to weep, and some child to cry after him; but they are no reasons why he should not suffer that society be protected.

The President has indicated very plainly that he is not to be moved by spectacular means of this kind; that every case must be decided upon its merits. He has the support of all right-thinking citizens in his stand. Meanwhile, Washington regards as likely candidates for the "meanest men" crowns those individuals who organize and use helpless children, and their child-love for the fathers in whom they loyally believe, to embarrass the President and attempt to force him to do for sentimental reasons that which his oath of office prevents his doing for any reason other than to serve the best interests of the country.

F. Flener, near Cromwell, to spend the summer.

STRAY STREAKS

(By Fluke McFluke.)

For the destruction of that greatest of all pests, the humbug, we would prescribe gunpowder with a leaden projectile in front.

The Office force had been making requests and petitions for nigh-on two years for us to have the windows cleaned, and growing tired of being pestered so much about the matter, we had cleaned the first of this week and now they all have to wear green goggles. They don't get much sympathy from us either, 'cause we had to pay out a dollar and six-bits for the work.

Well, we have that annual fishing trip out of our system and are now doctoring on skeeterbites, sunburn and swollen and fish-finned hands, besides taking a prescription from V. S. (meaning plain horse Doctor) for slight to serious disorders of the stomach. Yet, according to experiences ranging over the past 37 or 40 years we will be ready to repeat before the middle of June.

We were not on the job in the make-up of the sheet of last issue, yet a few have been so all-fired unkind and unthoughtful as to take some pains to compliment us on the general good appearance of the thing. These special comps have come from those who absolutely knew we were absent too. It's a cruel and revengeful bunch of warm friends we possess.

When the average fellow has reached the top rung in the ladder of "he thinks he knows it all," if he will only look down he will discover that the ground is still mighty near.

A man with much interest in this life is in position to live in ease, provided it is at the rate of eight percent per annum; and receivably these over-particular Bank Cashiers.

We received a special from Cromwell a day or two ago stating that Cap Davis, son of Richard Davis, went fishing and that he looked into the water near-by and spied a big fish, jumped upon his back, rode it to shallow water and came out with his prize. The scales carried by the aforesaid fish showed that he weighed 12, or maybe it was 112 pounds, we could not exactly make out which it was as the wireless was working bad.

Ed Barrass says these peggion moistureless drinks put up in Bud Weiser packages, made to look like they did before the advent of one guy Volstead, in wrappers of brilliant colors, with reading matter thereon stating that the contents were made from the choicest hops and purist of grains and guaranteed non-alcoholic, are a nuisance and an abomination, to say nothing of their being vexatious to the spirits while on a rainy fishing trip. John Moore was heard to second the motion for the fourth or fifth time, but each time Doc Pirtle ruled them out of order, as he sarcastically called their attention to the constitution against which no good citizen, or even a fisherman, should ever be heard to complain.

In so far as we, the columns of this paper, and our readers are concerned I. D. Claire might just as well go jump into the sea, hide himself in South Africa, or what's worse, seclude himself with A. Cox, the man of that famous bear story. Both of the men mentioned supra are quitters and unreliable when it comes to regularity in boring some of our readers we don't like so very much.
